“ Pete was my friend when we both worked at Sam Goody in the Monmouth Mall. He taught me so much about music & took me to numerous concerts including Amnesty International. His pride and joy was his bass guitar that he built himself and named Sting! He was so passionate about music & it rubbed off on all of us. I hope his parents are reading this and remember the times when I would be in their house listening to music for hours! Pete had such an impact on my life. I only hope that his passing was peaceful. May he rest in peace (and be jamming with his fellow rockstars in heaven). Love, Amy Sue

“ Pete and I were friends at the Park System for the 10 years he worked there, and after that. We spoke every couple of weeks, over the phone, about guitars, music and what was going on in each other's life at the time. I would swing by the house to show him a new guitar or see the latest additions to his collection. One of many fond memories was going to see AC/DC for my first time in May, 2001 with Pete and my friend Steve. Pete showed us parts of Madison Square Garden we didn't know existed. He knew that place like the back of his hand! The show was great! Ten full Marshall stacks and 2 SVT's on that stage. Pete loved it! I spoke to Pete last about 3 weeks before he passed. He wasn't feeling good and thought that he would have to go back in the hospital. I heard at tonight's service that he didn't and that he stayed home in the place he loved and with his family, I admire him for that, like I admired him for his kindness, his caring and his willingness to help a friend. I will miss our talks and I will miss him, my good friend from the Park System. My thoughts are with his parents, who stood by him and supported him over the past years. Also, his brother Tim and his family, his daughter Arianna and his good friend Todd. Pete spoke often of Todd and Tim. Rest in peace, Pete. Your friend, Andy Coeyman

“ Pete was such a sweet and funny guy. He used to make us laugh every time he called the office with his antics as Pierre the Frenchman. He even wore his beret to top it off. When he visited he would bring his fresh delicious homemade salsa to treat us. Every time I spoke to him he would share the latest photos and stories about his daughter, whom he clearly treasured. It is so sad he left us too soon, clearly Heaven has gained another great musician for its band. Rock on! Bless you, Pierre, and may you finally be at peace. Our condolences to your family and especially your beloved Arianna.

“ I was sad to read about Pete's passing. He engineered a home recording for me several years ago on Good Friday. Even though he was the one helping me out, he said it was a privilege to work with me. I hope the years he had were good. Deepest condolences to his loved ones.
