

Christine A Bonaccorsi

June 18, 1953 - December 13, 2020

Christine A. Bonaccorsi, a resourceful and strong mother, passed peacefully Sunday December 13, 2020 with her children by her side. Born June 18, 1953 and raised in West New York NJ, by Ruth Liparini Bonaccorsi (well known as Mrs. B) and Salvatore Bonaccorsi with her siblings Frank, Sal, and Cathy Bonaccorsi. She graduated from St. Joseph's High School in 1971 and went on to a career in customer service after attending St. Peter's college in Jersey City. She used her gift for gab to excel as a recruiter at the Chubb Institute and Gibbs College among other technical schools. Christine was known for always reminding her students of their individual special gifts, which helped motivate them to succeed. She raised her children with her former husband Frank Ceravolo in Old bridge, NJ. Her daughter, JeanMarie Ceravolo-Schulman of Wall, NJ and son Richard Ceravolo meant everything to her, and she always instilled in them her own kind heart and strong will. Her grandchildren affectionately called her "Gamma," and she always gave them a fun time and a laugh. Her sarcastic sense of humor, quick wit and creative advice will be missed but not forgotten. God wanted his angels to learn about resilience and now they will be sharing a cup (or several) cups of coffee while listening to her many stories. With her new wings, she is free to look over us now.

“ I knew Christine when we were in Grade school at St Joseph's on 64th street. I knew Mrs B very well and I printed Christine's wedding invitations.

“ My heart goes out to Jean and Rick. I will always remember Christine as being the life of the party and always laughing. She always reminded me of my first day of kindergarten. She knew my hair was up in pig tails and my purple dress. Jean and I have been friends ever since then. May you Rest In Peace and always watch over your family. Love you all ❤️
