“ I’m convinced Mr. McCarthy ran in a totally different time zone – a parallel universe perhaps? -- one that afforded him extra hours each day; moreso than us mere mortals? What else could explain his ability to be everywhere with everyone, at any given time of day (or night?) ? He was an inexhaustible example of everything fine and honorable.

I knew him to be a gentle man of great distinction. He had an immeasurable capacity to share all that he was in selfless loving, caring, devotion, loyalty and friendship ... his was a complete engagement of a quality life. His contagious gregariousness, wit, boundless enthusiasm, availability, helpfulness, encouragement, empathy and camaraderie were legend.

Because he was all those things, and so much more to us throughout the many years we were graced to have him in our lives, he was much loved; much respected, and will be much missed. I hope the cherished memories he’s left behind in our hearts, from the many lives he impacted so positively, will be a comfort to his family who so generously shared him with us, and the community at large.

*With love and condolence,

“ John McCarthy was a remarkable man. He quiet and strong. He gave his time, his knowledge and his compassion to all around him; friends, family and strangers. He inspired many others and led by the example of his life. He was a good tempered, active, and moral man. He had great dignity and was never bitter or angry when faced with great losses. He acted with steady pressure as a positive force for good in this world for decades. He will be remembered and loved by many. I will remember him as one of the good ones, one of the finest men I have ever met. Adios. Love to the family.
